Gun Transfer Policy

- a. We support our customers purchases from other sources and having them shipped to our store. While we would love to be selling all the guns that go through our store, it is not always possible and some chose other methods of purchase. Used guns are often only available from a smaller on-line source.
- b. We accept transfers from just about anyone with the following “Legal Requirements”:
 - a. All Handguns must be shipped from a Licensed Dealer (FFL). The ATF indicates that they want them shipped via a two-day delivery and with as many safeguards as are available. But we worry most about the tracking of the gun from it’s seller to the buyer.
 - b. A copy of the senders FFL should be included in the package with the name and contact information of the final recipient. This is for all transfers. We get a lot of packages and it is best if each is easily identifiable as to who it is going to.
 - c. Long guns are restricted much less, however, if they are not being sent by a dealer (FFL), which is legal in some states, then we need to confirm the identity of the sender. A driver’s license works best for this, other government issued Photo IDs could be used. The address cannot be a PO Box unless other information is shared to give us a 100% positive physical address for our records.
 - d. As stated, we need to know who the final recipient is and how to contact them once it arrives and processed into our records.
- c. The fee for transfers is currently $28 for the 1st firearm in the package and $17 each for any additional Firearms. If they are coming in different packages, then the multiple gun discount does not apply from another package or shipment.
